A Baltimore barber now has a stock anectote wherewith to edify his customers for a generation to come. A mysterious stranger with a beard as stiff as a field of stubble planted bimself in a chair and demanded a smooth shave. The barber set to work and thaved one-half of the man's face. He then demanded his pay, but the man after some parleying, admitted that he had no money. Disregarding his promise to pay in the future, the barber sternly ordered him to depart just as he was. His appearance on the street, with one ck covered with bristles and the other as smooth as the palm of a baby's hand, created intense amusement. In despuir he applied to a policeman to go a curity for the completion of the shave, but that officer, warned by former experience, decimed to commit himself. No one case would advance the required funds, and the stranger hastily departed for parts taknown.

Braddock's grave is protected by American hands. On November 29, 1871, Jonah King, of The Pillsburg Commercial Gazette, and J. R. Murdock carried into execution a plan for inclosing the grave with fence and setting out frees around it. They planted an Euglish elm, two English larebes, two Norway spruces, willow descended from one imported by the late B. A. a willow descended from one imported by the late R. A. Falmestock from the grave of Napoleon at St. Rielena, and several varieties of American shrubbery. The grave is in a field belonging to the estate of the late James Dixon, on the north side of the old National turnpike, nine miles east of Unundown, and Wilham A. Gatther, who lives on the adjoining farm, has promised Mr. King to interest himself in the preservation of the frees, and the fence is to be repainted this Spring.

Lan't if charming to find old months lively.

Isn't it charming to find old people lively and frisky and youthful both in their love affairs and litizations ! A story of giddy antiquity comes from Birmingham, Mich.-how a Romeo of seventy has married a Juliet of sixty, and while the merry marriage bel was yet sounding was sued for breach of promise by a lorn lady of sixty five, the united aget of all three being one hundred and ninety-five years. There is no January and May business here. The rime of antiquity is over all, and a frostr consistency pervades the legendary partitive. The only drawback is in the long-winded uncertainty of the law. Both the parties, plantiff and defendant, may be dead of old age before the case comes to a conclusion; which shows the advantage of bringing actions for breach of promise early in life.

The portraits of the Governors were rescued from the flames which destroyed the City Hall at Al-bany on Tuesday morning. A ladder was placed at the northeast corner of the building, and a squad of pretec-tives, assisted by several citizens, passed the paintings brough the windows, and lowered them to the ground by means of ropes. This work was begun none too soon for but a few minutes clapsed after the removal of the last picture before the devouring flames broke cut in the room. None of the paintings are seriously injured. Most of them, however, have received some scratches, and are either searched or wrinkled. Some will be made and are either scorched or wrinkled. Some will be made, as good as new by touching up, and nearly all must be rebacked. It is believed to be the only complete series of pictures or the Governors in existence. Every occur-pant of the Executive Chair, from George Clinton to Join A. Dix is represented, Governors Samuel J. Thiden and Lucious Robinson not yet having been received.

A college romance is told by The Atlanta Constitution. Many years ago a young fellow went to Yale College. The futher was very rich and the youngr lived in grand style at the university. Suddenly to old gentleman failed and had to withdraw his son from college. The boy, however, felt the necessity of an education, and determined to have one anybow. He, therefore, went to work and learned a trade as a machinist. While he was at his work his old associates cut him and refused to have snything to do with him. The young ladies with whom he had been a great favorite failed to recognize him when they met him. One day while going from his work he met a wealthy young lady who had been his friend. He had his tin dinner-bucket over his arm, and supposed she would cut him as all the rest had done. She smiled pleasantly, addressed him as "Tom," and hisisted that he should call and see her as he had always done. She said: "There is no change in you, as far as I am concerned." The years rolled on. The young workboy became wealthy, and owner of a factory in workboy became wealthy, and owner of a factory in which 1.500 men and women are employed. The young girl grew to womenhood and married. Her husband berrowed a large sum of money from the rich man, and dea before he had paid it, leaving has family with but little property. The capilalist sent her, with his conductant of the configuration of the configuration of the manual of the conductant of the son of the millionaire, is going to marry the dangitter of the one woman who was faithful and true to the young workboy at college.

EVERY COUNTY IN PENNSYLVANIA FOR BLAINE. From The Philadelphia Press (Rep.)

From all the indications of public sentiment which can be gathered from newspapers, from votes of Republicans at their recent primaries and from private sources, it is, we believe, within the bounds of truth to state that there is not a single county in Pennsylvania, large majority of the votes of which are not in favor of the nomination of James G. Blaine, of Maine, for President. There has rarely been such unanimity, and every day adds to its strength. Notwithstanding this, it is true that, as a result of the action of the Harrisburg convention, the Pennsylvania delegates to Calcago are instructed to vote for another preson, whose tomination the majority of the Republicans of not one county can be assumed to desire. There are many indications that the people will not rest till these delegates are given the opportunity of choosing which instructions they will follow, those of their own districts or those of the convention.

WATTERSON SITS ON HENDRICKS ONCE MORE. From The Louisville Courier Journal (Dem.) WAITERSON SITS ON HENDRICKS ONCE MORE. From the Louisville Courier-Journal (Dem.)

The attempt to use the name of ex-Governor Seymour, of New-York, as a possible Democratic nominee for President, is a very poor and also a very unworthy piece of political chicanery. But the coupling of the name of ex-Governor Hendricks with this conceil, which has found some vogue among the foolish friends of Governor Hendricks is not a possibility in connection with the next Democratic ticket, except as a yoke-mate to Mr. Tilden. He does not deserve this, on account of his own foily and the foily of his friends; but it would probably be conceded to the idea, where justice would deny it to the individual. Nothing, however, could be more abourd or could disclose the stupidity of the Hendricks' people more glaringly than the clatter about Seymour and Hendricks. Governor Seymour could not be prevailed on to accept a Presidential nomination, and as for Mr. Hendricks, his chief, Mr. Tilden, being out of the way, that ends him in the next race, and, for the matter of that, as to all future time. The merest tyre in politics can see and understand this.

GRANT AND BLAINE IN NEW-YORK.

From The Litics Herald (Rep.)

If anyone has entertained a doubt of the surprising popularity of James G. Blaine among the Republican masses of New-York State, that doubt will be set at rest by the action of the caucases neld in the City of Watertown yesterday. Outspoken Biaine men were elected delegates in every ward, and indeed no attempt was mede to run delegates in the interest of any other candidate. In the Second Ward a division of the house showed 65 Blaine men to 6 Grant men. In the Third Ward a similar division showed 38 Blaine men and 3 Grant men. We believe that if a full and laft expression could be obtained throughout the State, unbased by any other considerations, such as the desire to make a Chicago delegation for the advantage of those who are not themselves candidates for the no mination, the résult would everywhere be about the same, as between these two men, Blaine and Grant.

Coneral M. C. Butter in a Hartford Post Interview.

It is my firm conviction that after the next Presidential election universal peace will prevail and the animosities of section be swallowed up in the prosperity of the country. In my own Senatorial position I am struggling rather to extinguish altogether the strive to avoid controversal debate, but as often seek to divert the tendency of such a curr nt of legislative action by the presentation of extrinsic subject matter. I foresaw the results of the extra session, and endeavored to prevent it. It was a great blunder, and its effects are being now sensibly felt in many ways. The North forced the party.

THE SHEPHERD CROSS-EXAMINED.

When the court opened yesterday morning Mr. Cowley resumed the witness stand for cross-examination by District-Attorney Phelps. The attendance of women was somewhat less than on previous days of the trial, nearly all of those present being interested in the case as witnesses or friends of Mr. and Mrs. Cowley

There was a noticeable absence of clergymen.

"I have been a priest since 1857," said Mr. Cowley, in response to the District-Attorney. "I was born in England. I own a house in Lowelt, Mass.; it was left me buriand. I own a bouse in Lowell, Muss.; it was left me by my father. My wife bought a house in Lowell, but I know nothing about the transaction. I am not inter-ested in any business outside of the Shepherd's Fold. I sin a nominal creditor of my brother. The Shepherd's Fold was incorporated in March. 1868. I founded it, I was connected with it for about two years. I was not turned out as I was not in residence. I was president of the ladies' associa-tion, and it had charge of the interior management of the Fold. In 1869 ceclesiastical politics ran high. I belonged to the more conservative side, and was supported by most of the ladies in the Fold. The persons on the other side were radicals, and to it most of the men belonged. At a meeting of some of the original trustees, held in Wall Street, nine or ten of the old trustees were dropped, and I was among the number. The meeting was filegal for several reasons, and we protested. We went to law, and the question is still in the

Mr. Cowley read from the admission book the names of the children who had been in the Fold in 1879. There were forty-sine in all. He was questioned at considerable length as to the disposition of the children after they left the Fold.

"Was this asked of your answer, 'Dr. F. I. Hunt I'"

"Yes, sir. The bill of fare was directed by him on the opening of the Fold, and was approved by him until the time of his death."

"Did you ever use the word 'ordered I'"

"I probably did, but I cannot say. I objected to the stenographer's report, and marked my objections in pencil on the report. They have since been crased. Miss Calingtoan had general charge of the children at meals. I was frequently present, but did not remain through the meals. I have no doubt that Miss Callaghan meant to tell the truth, but 'shen she said that Louis Victor never had any meal she was not correct. We began to give Louis Victor eggs in July, 1879; in the same mental gave him oranges. He also had tomatoes. The doctor did not prescribe a generous diet for the child until the latter part of October. Then I gave him meat myself nearly every day. He had beef, mutton, corn-beef, fish, eggs, and in fact everything that we had ourselves. This diet continued up to December 26, when he was removed to the neightat. He was often fed three times a day; we gave him bedied rice, tousted white bread, milk and sugar and buiter."

John Campbell, a bright lad of fifteen years, was next called. He said he had lived in the Fold since be was three years old.

I was in a hardware store, and also in a drug store. I now get $2 a week. Once when I ran away I went to work in a lager beer saloon. Mrs. Sophia Cowley, the wife of Mr. Cowley, the accused man, was then called. She testified that her duty had been to superintend and overlook the children of the Fold. They were comfortably clothed, and were fed with food which kept them healthy and strong. During the last three years not a child in the institution had missed a meal through illness, except Louis Victor.

We believe that the mass of the people prefer that Grant be nominated, became they believe he is sure of an election, and that they are not sure that any other man can be. They wanted the Governor to warrant and defend the title to the lessees, which he re-fused to do, except so far as he was authorized by the lesse act. A RAILROAD SALÉ CONFIRMED.

AN EX-BANK PRESIDENT CONVICTED.

NEW-ORLEANS, Feb. 13.-Edward C. Palmer, who was indicted on November 11, 1879, for having, as president of the Louisiana Savings Bank, embezzied on the 28th of June, 1879, the sum of $47,437, has been

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. TERRITORIAL DELEGATES.

To the Editor of The Tribune. SIR: In 1856, when General Fremont was nominated for President, delegates from Kansas were admitted and permitted to vote in the National Convention as a compliment to that Territory, then having the sympathy of the country because of her struggle against slavery extension. Ever since then struggle against slavery extension. Ever since then Territorial delegates and delegates from the District of Columbia have been permitted to vote in Republican (but not in Democratic) National Conventions. These delegates represent a constituency that cannot cast a single vote for President! Why should they take part in the selection of a candidate? I sit just to those who do the voting I Let it be discussed before the meeting of the Convention.

DEFECTS IN PLANS OF MODEL SCHOOLS. To the Editor of The Tribune. SIR: The following defects are patent in the plans of model school-houses exhibited at the Academy of Design: First-Most of the plans do not provide light and air spaces at the sides and rear of the building. This is a grave defect. The building should be constructed so as sliow a free circulation of air around it.

Second-Some of the plans provide for only one corrider on each floor for both boy and girls to pass through in going to and from the assembly-room, the class-roo etc. Decency and modesty demand separate corridors for girls and boys. Third-A number of the plans have open wellsto stair-

Third—A number of the plans have open wellsto stairways, dangerous in case of fire or panie. The Greenwich Avenue School horror nuet act be forzotten.

Fourth—A supply of water for extinguishing fire is one of the testures inciting in all except two or three plans. No theatre, school-house, or public unifding in which many persons assemble should be built without a system of fire pipes with various outlets on each floor, and steam free pumps strached ready for any emergency.

Fifth—All of the plans, except one or two, locate the steam boilers and fuel under the building. This is extremely hazardous; they belong under the sidewalks.

Sixth—A number place the closets in the centre of the courts and playground. No better or surer plan could be devised for foulling the air of the whole school. Secoth—In a number of plans the rooms are to be lighted entirely by windows directly in front of the schoolars. This causes great injury to the eyes. The nain light should come from the side. A window in front could be utilized for ventilation, not for lighting.

Eighta—Dark cloak-rooms are provided through which the children must peas. These are decidedly objectionable. Two good-sized wardrobes are alone required; the panels could be need for blackwoards.

A PROBLEM IN FINANCE.

To the Editor of The Tribune. Sm: H. B. Claffin's paper is good for its face because he is a solvent merchant, and will receive it in payment for goods bought at his house. If he refused to honor his paper in this way he would be justly consted a "frand." By parity of circumstances it would appear that Government notes, not a legal tender, equal in amount to its gross annual expenses, say $250,000,000-plus the value of its own property, say $250,000,000 more-would be at par provided the Government would receive them to payment of all dates

Government would receive them is payment to itself.

Granting this inference to be true, would it not be economical to issue $509,000,000 of Treasury notes and thereby save the interest which the people must pay by gaining the same amount of currency from the National banks if Since the National banks are given a carrency secured by Government credit, why could not the people be provided with a similar currency, over Government counters, at the simple cost of service, several by a mortrage of real cause! cured by a morigage on real estate!

Of all the papers I take, I consider your SUNDAY TRIB-Of all the papers I take, I consider your SCRDAY TRIB-UNE the best promoter of good works. I am only sorry that it appears to violate the objects and ends of a day of rest. Leaving out such considerations, and judging the paper on its merits, I will only say that I am abuniantly satisfied with it, and regularly send my copy to a family, in which I take much interest, in a fair off country, having first read it tully myself. G. G. Fairmount, N. F., Feb. 6, 1880.

COMMENDING AN IMPARTIAL ATTITUDE. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Six: I am glad to learn, by reading your most excellent paper, that you are not tied down to any particular candidate for President. I infer from your fairness that should Sherman. Blaine, Grant, Edminds or any other good Republican get the nomination at the Chicago Convention, you would be ready to give your influence, which is a power in the land, toward electing the candidate. This, I have no doubt, Is what every Republican loves to know.

THE IRISH RELIEF MOVEMENT.

MR. PARNELL AT BALTIMORE. BALTIMORE, Feb. 13 .- The reception of

Charles Stewart Pernell at the Academy of Music to-night, was attended by about 2,500 people. Mayor Latrobe presided. The Hon. William Pinkney White welcomed Mr. Parnell in a snort address. Mr. Parnell stated the object of his visit to this country, and after reciting the evils of the land tenure system of Ireland, said that what had been done in this country had at last called the British Government to a sense of its responsibility with re the people of Ireland. It has been demonstrated by the agents of The New-York Herald that there were three hundred thousand people slowly starving until help went from the United States. The people of this coun-try had responded nobly to the cry of distress.

PHASES OF THE PUBLIC DISTRESS. LONDON, Friday, Feb. 13, 1880. The unemployed laborers of Dublin held another demonstration to-day. In their speeches they declared that they were on the brink of starvation. Referring to the Irish distress The Times says : " The neasures of the Government are intended only to take effect when the Poor law system proves whelly inade-quate, whether it is at the cost of the Church Fund or of the State."

At the meeting of the Dublin Mansion House Fund yesterday, it was announced that the sum of £200 had been received from the Hou. Richard O'Gorman, of New-York. Several letters were read from different parts of the country containing particulars of the increasing distress. The contributions so far amount to £27,584 ($280,282), the disbursements to £27,000 ($130,950).

Men were blown dewn on the street. A man on a trestle was blown from it, breaking a leg. All trains were compelled to lay up on account of trees and rails being blown across the tracks. The streets are filled with tin roots, signs and fallen trees. Several large manufacturing establishments are almost totally destroyed. St. Paul's Church (colored), one of the floest in the city, is almost a total wreek. The damage in the city is estimated to be $100,000, but in the country it cannot be approximated. Several lives are reported to have been lost.

A TENDESSEE SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Carter rose, and Halcombe was in the act of striking him again when Carter shot him below the left eye, killing him in-stantly. The affair resulted from Halcombe having for bidden his daughter, who is a widow, to marry Carter.
